Images from the walk to the waymarker tree.

Left: the gateway onto the road to Skiddaw House (for authorised vehicles only) from the car parking area near Peter House; and right: new hawthorn hedgerows are evident along the metalled access way.

Some existing mature hawthorn hedgerows are irregular and straggly, with several dead trees.

There have been changes to the fenced boundaries and, possibly, the removal of some trees – resulting in fewer hawthorn, which are now scattered across the field pattern – though, over time, there are likely to be new replacement plantings improving and restoring the beauty of Dash Valley.
