

1.9 White Side 6

Images from the walk to the waymarker tree.

The upper rowan has been successively damaged over the decades – losing its top and all semblance of a natural crown shape – and yet it endures and continues to bear flower and seed.

The lower rowan is summarily misshapen, stunted, dual-trunked – and yet persistent, watching over the quiet vale of Glenridding Beck.