

1.1 Birkhouse Moor 4

Images from the walk to the waymarker tree.

The shy and secretive Lanty's Tarn, surrounded by woodland, close to the final approach to Keldas.

The maturing Scots pines illustrated by AW in Ullswater from Keldas – still framing the view.

The pines, seen from a position slightly further away and above, to indicate their present-day dimensions. Many trees are in the vicinity – particularly another (third) pine of similar size to the right-hand tree, largely unseen from this angle as it stands directly behind and in line with the left-hand pine. Note the distant tiny tree-topped island of Wall Holm, seen in AW's original drawing.